

TOGO TOURS--Seeing America First

Personally conducted by
HASHIMURA TOGO & [Wallace Irwin]

"COULD THIS BE THE STOCKYARDS? IT WAS."

So many tourists to report.

"It has been said by some famous newspapermen that the cost of living is becoming higher with each increase of prices. This is no false as it is true. Look. Between a pound of beef which cost 12c in 1909 costs 25c today--is that a sign that it is any more expensive than it was? Ah no! It is merely 10c higher. As a matter of fact food is cheaper this year than ever before--it only costs more, that is all. This shows how the Public can be deceived by mere outside appearances."

"Trouble is that the People of America are becoming too extravagant. They require Grand Opera and Portofino when they should get along with Hamburg Steak and Moving Picture Shows. You can not walk through the slums but what you are deceived by the odor of stinky stinks. Poverty persons should get satisfied with cheaper cuts."

"What is a cheaper cut?" require a Lady Muckrake.

"A cheaper cut is the inexpensive framework of an animal, like his hoofs and horns. These parts are now being made into shoe buttons. With a little patience and imagination the working classes could learn to hold up these shoe buttons so they would make decent soap."

"Have you some recipes for such a soap?" require one Broadside Lady with Mrs. Bonner voice.

"O surely yes!" suggest him with sweetly smiling. Following is it:

"Shoe Button Soap--Select three dozen large, ripe shoe buttons; remove the cores and soak in lime juice for six hours. Strain through a mosquito net until they show a tendency to freeze. Add butter. Whip. Then take the shells of two eggs, 1/2 gal oil of pine-apple and the covers of four medium-sized baking powder cans. Boil rapidly for eight hours, add nutmeg and serve in finger bowls with birdseed scattered lightly over the top. You will be surprised when you taste it."

While Hon. Pig President was speaking thus, several completely silk ladies approached inside and took chairs in rows like a theater.

"Excuse me, please to!" say Hon. Press. "This is Wednesday when the Pig and Purity Branch of the Ethical Culture Society come here for tea-drunk and conversation on uplift subjects."

So he departed off for make shake hand with them Ethical Ladies. One lady read a paper about "Comparative Ethics of Robt. Browning and Jas. Jeffries" in the middle of considerable refined applause. After which Hon. Anthony McCluskey, famous baby talk poet, who studied paths under Jas. Whitcomb Rivers, arose upwards and read following pure food poem:

"When Grandma falls and breaks his leg
We get his nearest fun!
My screams and Pa sez, 'st like that,
'Gee, catch the Doctor--run!'
And when the Doctor comes, Pa sez,
A feeble awful good,
'He don't need no medicine,
'Cause Grandma's leg is wood!'"

So we depart away without inspecting the Beef Department where cows are still surprised by being shot in the head with an axe.

Hoping you are the same
Yours truly
HASHIMURA TOGO.

The Chicago Folks!
Are You Aware?
You Thank You Are Patients,
Yet You Have Never Seen Your Stockyards!
We Will Cure Your Ignorance.
Price, $1.

All Chicago folk what seen that even began looking around on slum, surprised by our lack of (peterson) national courtesy. Some made lunch-laws and thus to us. We felt very obnoxious, like Hon. Roosevelt when he was telling Great Britain how to manage Egypt on the American Plan.

But pretty soon they natives from Chicago became less harsh with their few & arduous. Several people & 2 or 3 politicians begin buying tickets, price $1. Among them passengers are approaching with rubbernecking, expressing we notice Hon. Mayor Russell prominent reformer. In the center of the diagram this great man is shaped like a complete Tuff Polity. If he should ever sit down on the Tuff of it would never rise again. In view the gravity he weighs 24 lbs. of average pass. He is every once a Mutton.

"Tog," he say chirally, "how much for ride around in this joy-waggon?"

"I estimate you to be worth $3," I allow.

"I was deceived into believing that you charged $1 for single persons," he said with proud expression like a perpetual franchise.

"You are not a single person," I denounce. "You are a triplet."

So Hon. Russell neglect to make any other Republican arguments and clutter about with streaks. Among other prominent Chicago persons enthusiastic to see this Stockyards was Hon. John Drew and 14 members of the Lady Muckrakers' League who was there to discuss the important question "Can the Pig Be Removed from American Politics--and if so would it be humane?" One of the Ladies said it was useless to uplift the Stockyards when Home was Woman's natural spear. But another on with gentlemanly collar dicker, "Packtown is one of the most problems which compress America today. So they all elum aboard prepared to roast the Mutton Trust."

"Hohhohh!" This remark was made by Hon. Ortonobile as we elum forward amidst gasoline and intellectual conversation.

"I don't see this Stockyards," exclaims one elderly maiden with voice. "It is a carnivorous place of death and hump where many a cow is led to sausage before she gets a chance to reform and lead a respectable life. Would it not be more civilized to find good homes for the sheep and hens and pigs and cattle and dogs..."

"Hohhohh!" says one Lady Red-roose Husband is in the Beef Trust. "Will not this Packtown be a pile of crude lard and smelly?" says John Drew with Pinery expression of monotony.

"Ah-hoh!" say Hon. Bass. "Packtown is now under a reform government. You would be surprised to see what changes has come over it a row. Hon. In Similar discovered the pig."
